Registration for the ONLINE May 12-13 Grantsmanship Course offered through Northwestern University is open!

Course: PHIL NP 380-0: Grantsmanship for the Research Professional

Dates: Thursday and Friday, May 12-13, 2022

Description:

Grantsmanship for the Research Professional is a two-day executive education-style workshop that introduces and enhances skills associated with effective grant opportunity identification, proposal preparation, grant review process, and team science. The course covers:

- Strategies for developing grant proposals that support both hypothesis-driven and need-based research activities
- Funding agencies and funding opportunity identification across the government (emphasis on NIH, NSF, and other federal funders), corporate, and foundation sectors
- Proposal review process and reviewer-centric grantsmanship
- Proposal planning, proposal components, and writing the research objectives (specific aims) and project narrative sections
- Budget development
- Proposal submission and post-award primer; and,
- Team Science

The course is relevant to individuals in a range of roles at universities, research institutes and/or research hospitals—researchers, trainees, administrators, and specialists in scientific collaboration—and is most appropriate across all early to mid-career stages:

- Researchers (trainee through faculty) conducting research in Engineering; Sciences (Biomedical, Health, Clinical, Physical, Natural and Social); Law; and Education
- Research Development Professionals, Research Administrators, and Research Managers supporting individual researchers and/or teams of investigators; and,
- Grant & Contract Officers from Sponsored Research Offices involved in pre-award activities
